MINOR MENTION.

Reiter, merchant tailor, for fine goods.

Permit to wed was yesterday granted to T. B. Ely and Lenora A. Grove, both restraining the sheriff of Mills county,

J. Winans has removed his lunch room into the building next to the Northwestern depot.

Mr. and Mrs. Pethybridge are happy in having added to their home circle a bright boy baby.

Police Officer O'Brien is taking a layoff, and his place is being filled by a special, A. E. Baker.

The ladies of the Episcopal church are Masonic hall next Monday night.

The city council will at its meeeting to-morrow night consider the advisability of paying the police by a system of fees instead of a regular salary.

Omaha has added to her list of tonsorial artists Joe Anderson, and Council Bluffs now has Bob Stouse, who now presides over a chair in Charlie Heisler's

Mary E. Stratton now wants to be set free from E. W. Stratton, to whom she was married at Clarinda in 1880. She claims that he has been getting drunk and abusing her.

The official call was made yesterday for a special meeting of the county board on Tuesday of next week, to take steps now go on probably without any more delays.

In the contest over the chieftainship of the fire department, a motion is pending before Judge Connor to dissolve the injunction issued by Judge Aylesworth, restraining D. F. Eicher from acting as chief. The motion is to be heard next Tuesday evening, the judge not having time to give to the hearing of arguments yesterday.

street, and the store is to be again opened by Mr. Bray, who will run it in connection with his store No. 1512 Douglas street, Omaha. The circumstances connected with the case will be remembered by the readers of the BEE.

R. I. Skiles has pleaded guilty to the charge of forgery in Omaha and is in jail awaiting sentence. In all probability in consultation over these cases, and that after the term for forgery is served J. N. they disagreed, the former deciding to said, offers to donate to that city ten Bray will look after Skiles' interest, as and the latter deciding to refuse the ing the city will properly improve the Mr. Bray, on taking an inventory of the motion. The outcome shows how wild grounds. stock of which Skiles had charge, has found he was $175 short, and Bray doesn't seem to be inclined to lose it.

The superior court was busy yesterday listening to evidence in the case of Ruth Johnson, charged with keeping a house with too bad a name. This colored family seems to be furnishing plenty of news, and more than their share of sensations. The young woman now on trial is the one whose husband shot her, and then killed himself. The notorious Cuff Johnson is one of the family also, he being under a life sentence for murder.

Owing to the absence of F. M. Hunter the cases of the three men arrested at Extra for passing counterfeit silver dollars, came up before the other United fall: States commissioner, G. F. Wright, yesterday. One of the trio, Alva Trip, was bound over to the next term of the United States court, and the others were discharged with some very good advice to avoid suspicious company in the future.

In the notices of the recent concert, the press of the city failed to mention the accompanist, Miss Addie Horton, The audience did not fail to notice her, however, and the modest and skillful manner in which she served this important part won for her much praise. It is a failing with accompanists to lead, iustead of accompanying, and many a sweet song is spoiled by the pianist, who, in an attempt at brilliant playing, drowns the voice and distracts the attention. Miss Horton is a true accompanist, and to her is due much of the enjoyability of because the cases are not exactly parallel. the vocal numbers of the programme.

Now that it appears evident that the saloons are to run anyway, there is a strong pressure being brought to bear to have them forced to pay the city a license in some form, or else to have the city use its official power to have them closed. The present way of running is unsatisfactory remote and unfrequented restaurant and to all, and as there will be no little chance gorge them to death on strawberries and for an immediate change growing out of any of the cases now pending in court, it is urged by some of the best citizens that the city council should take some kind of action, to either make the saloons pay or to make them close. The saloon men, or at least many of them, express their will- dent last Saturday afternoon. While ingness to pay the usual license just as cleaning out a well on his premises the parts of Parls where the cholera raged terday listening to arguments in the case of Dr. Cross, sentenced to death for the murder of Dr. McKune. The state claimed that under the provisions of the law in such cases the prisoner should be taken from Glenwood, where he is now in jall, and placed in the penitentiary at Fort Madison, and kept there until the execution of the death penalty. The The home of A. S. McCreary has been defense claimed that as there was an apgladdened by the arrival of a bouncing peal pending the doctor should be kept 101 Pearl street, In the jail at Glenwood, and an injunction was obtained in Judge Aylesworth's court Dan Farrell, from taking the doctor to the penitentlary. Yesterday the motion to dissolve the injunction was argued at length but not decided, the judge wanting time to consider the matter. Terry Lyons, who has just been taken to Fort Madison, for forging the name of his employers, Raymond & Campbell, to a check, found in the clerk at the penitentiary, an old friend, who had known him in Marengo, Ill., and who was surprised indeed to see him under such arranging for a dancing party in the circumstances. He coroborated the statements that Lyons came from a firstclass family, and that he had borne a dist Episcopal church, will be in the city spotless reputation. It seems that while next Monday to dedicate the new church living at Marengo Lyons was the husband of a beautiful woman, whom he loved dearly, and that when trouble arose between them, and he was convinced that she was untrue to him, he took to drink, and that it was the whisky, rather than any innate meanness, which lead him to forge the check. He swears now that he will not hereafter touch a drop, and with the bitter experience, and disgrace, the lesson may lead him to keep his vow.

SENT TO UNCLE SAM.

The Injunction Cases Against the Sa loons Sent to the Federal Courts.

The long delay and the great curiosity in regard to the injunction cases brought against the saloons was brought to one for advertising for bids for the building milestone yesterday by the decisions of of the new court house. The work will Judges Loofbourow and Connor. There was one of these injunction cases brought before Judge Loufbourow, of the district court, and over twenty before Judge Connor, of the circuit court. In all these cases, the attorneys for the defense the federal courts, on the ground that certian parts of the state prohibitory law were repugnant to certain sections of the constitution of the United States. The public has waited long for a decision on this point, and yesterday morning the clerk of the courts received the written order ment of the ladies of the Episcopal of Judge Loofbourow sending the cases church, will be closed after this week, the to the circuit court of the United States. The judge gave no reasons for the faith that was within him. Judge Connor was Crockwell, who will take posession at here in person yesterday attending to some business, in chambers, and he too made a like order in regard to the cases

This transfer of the cases to the United States court is rather a dampener on the Thomas N. Bray has replevened the prosecution of salocus, as it will cause boot and shoe stock in the atore recently final defeat. It is said that the parties occupied by R. I. Skiles at No. 102 Main seeking the change are the ones who day, causing a loss of about $13,000, in must see that the transcrapts are made out, and they will not be in any great hurry to do so. It looks now that there will be nothing accomplished until after Wednesday, the walls falling into the the fall election, in any event, and the prospect for a long legal fight seems more probable than ever.

Among the curious rumors affoat yes-Loofbourow and Judge Connor had been and Hugh Caldwell, of Ottawa, Ill. send the cases into the federal courts, flying rumors become, and how readily they are accepted as true. Just what move the prohibitionists will of getting their desires in the federal in Moline. courts, and the saloon men are rejoicing as they look at this decision as being virtually the end of the matter. In this they may be mistaken, as the prohibitionists have by no means given up the contest, although somewhat disappointed by the result of the first round.

Getting Back on The Globe. Brother Keith, of the Crawford county Bulletin, has a good memory, and he thus recalls and comments on the events of last

Our esteemed contemporary, the Council Bluffs Globe, censured the Bulletin last fall for its criticisms upon the action of the men who traded off the judicial and county tickets in Crawford county, and assuming a knowledge of local affairs which it did not possess it read us a lecture on "harmony." recently the Globe, which has been holding a kind of fatherly esplonage over the patronage of the Ninth district, failed to get the Council Bluffs postoffice, and to our unutterable horror runs a lance into the local democrats who opposed its ambitions. It says: "The small group of democrats here, who thought they were slyly and slickly engaged in doing dirty work, can have some conception of what decent men in the republican party think of them." In the language of the Globe in 1884 we might add that that "group" comprises "some of the best democrats in that county," but we won't, behalf of the party—the Globe is doing grave of Yankee Robinson, the veteran its in behalf of the postoffice. SANITARY

Adam Smith was a cattle dealer, and was a very wicked man. A camp meeting was in progress in his locality, and among many others who were converted were several members of his family. At last he consented to visit the meeting, and during the progress of the service one of his daughters came around to where her father was sitting, and in tears she said to him: "Father, I am wedded to the Lord." "Wedded to who, did you say, Mary Ann?" "To the Lord, father." "If that's so, b'gosh, the Smiths have got into a good family at last."
